SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

I. BACKGROUND

- This dispute arises out of alleged damages caused by the escape of crude oil from the Murphy Oil USA, Inc. Meraux Refinery in the Parish of St. Bernard. Liability is disputed and settlement negotiations have been conducted at arm's length.
- The Parties to this agreement are the named plaintiffs and class members, appearing through the Plaintiffs' Steering Committee ("PSC"), the PSC, Murphy Oil USA, Inc. and Murphy Oil Corporation (hereinafter "Murphy").
- 3. Class Action lawsuits were filed by and on behalf of numerous persons claiming damages as a result of the "Incident" as defined in Section II.14.
 These suits were subsequently consolidated into the above-captioned matter and on September 25, 2006 a settlement was reached.

4. On January 30, 2006, the Court certified a class defined as follows:

All persons and/or entities who/which have sustained injuries, loss and/or damages as a result of the September 2005 spill of crude oil and any other related substances from a storage tank located on Defendant Murphy Oil USA, Inc.'s property in Meraux, Louisiana and who/which on August 29, 2005, were residents of, or owned properties or businesses in, the following area: Beginning north from the 40 Arpent Canal with its intersection in the west of Paris Road in Chalmette, Louisiana, and traveling along Paris Road in a southerly direction to its intersection with St. Bernard Highway, then heading east from this intersection along St. Bernard Highway to Jacob Drive, then heading north along Jacob Drive (including properties on both sides of Jacob Drive) to the intersection with East Judge Perez Drive, then heading east along East Judge Perez Drive to its intersection with Mary Ann Drive, then heading north along Mary Ann Drive to the 40 Arpent Canal.

This Agreement shall apply to this Class as that definition is further refined below. Upon approval of this Agreement, persons who previously opted out of this Class and who have not settled with Murphy, will be permitted to opt back in to avail themselves of the benefits provided herein. The identities of these persons who opted out are reflected in attached Exhibit 1. Additionally, persons who settled with Murphy and who resided, leased or own property or businesses in the Buyout Zone as defined in Section II below, or who participate in the Recovery Program as defined in Section VI below, will be able to opt-in to this Class and receive benefits provided herein.

- 5. The Parties seek to enter into a Class Action Settlement.
- 6. A Motion for Preliminary Approval of a Class Action Settlement has been filed, and the parties jointly will pursue an Order of Preliminary Approval and an Order of Final Judgment as to the overall fairness of the settlement.

- 7. The Parties have engaged in extensive discovery and related motion practice and numerous court hearings have been held. The Parties have reviewed all relevant documents, taken statements, consulted with numerous experts, and deposed fact and expert witnesses.
- 8. Murphy has denied and continues to deny each and every allegation brought by members of the Class and all charges of wrongdoing or liability of any kind whatsoever which members of the Class presently have asserted in this Litigation or may in the future assert.
- 9. Murphy has agreed to enter into this Settlement Agreement in order to put to rest all controversy in this matter and to avoid further expense and burdensome, protracted and costly litigation that would be required in defending this Litigation.
- 10. The PSC believes that it is in the best interests of the Class, as defined herein, to compromise all claims asserted by the Class against Murphy in consideration of a fair and appropriate settlement recognizing (i) the existence of complex and contested issues of law and fact, (ii) the comparative degree of the alleged liability or culpability of Murphy, (iii) the risks inherent in litigation, (iv) the likelihood that future proceedings will be unduly protracted and expensive if the proceeding is not settled by voluntary agreement with Murphy, (v) the magnitude of the benefits derived from the contemplated settlement in light of both the maximum potential and likely range of recovery to be obtained through further litigation and the expense thereof, as well as the potential of no recovery whatsoever, and (vi) the Class Representatives' and the PSC's determination that the settlement is fair, reasonable, adequate and in the best interests of and will substantially benefit the Class Members.

WHEREAS it is the intent of the PSC and Murphy that: (i) a majority of the class representatives approve this Agreement; (ii) this Agreement and proposal of a settlement then be submitted to the Court for Preliminary Approval; (iii) this settlement proposed for preliminary approval obtain Preliminary Approval by the Court; (iv) notice of settlement be issued to the class; (v) the benefits described herein be proven for allocation; (vi) a hearing on the fairness of the settlement take place; (vii) the settlement be finally approved; (viii) the other obligations undertaken by the PSC and Murphy be performed; and (ix) upon entry of the Final Order and Judgment and occurrence of the Final Settlement Date, all hereinafter defined, Murphy shall be released and discharged by the Court from the Released Claims of the Class.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Class, as represented by the PSC and Murphy intend to present to the Court the terms, conditions and provisions of a settlement of all actual and potential claims by the Class and each member thereof against Murphy, subject to the Preliminary Approval of the Court, and, upon compliance with and completion of the terms and conditions set forth below, to obtain Final Approval of and adjudication by the Court as required by F.R.C.P. 23.

Case 2:05-cv-04206-EEF-JCW

Pending the final distribution of funds from the Recovery Program, the Court shall retain continuing jurisdiction over the implementation, administration and conduct of the settlement and the interpretation, construction and enforcement of this Agreement. Any action to enforce and/or related to this Agreement shall be commenced and maintained only in this Court. The inclusion of "Insurers" within the definition of "Compromising Defendants" shall not be deemed to be submission, agreement or acquiescence by any insurer to any United States court's jurisdiction.

3. Qualified Settlement Fund:

a. The Account used to compensate Class Members shall constitute a "qualified settlement fund" within the meaning of Section 468B of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and all rulings thereunder.

4. Liability for Fees:

a. Except as otherwise specifically provided for in this Agreement, no party shall be liable for any costs or expenses incurred by or on behalf of any other party in connection with this Agreement and the actions contemplated thereby, subject to the above provisions for Murphy's payment of common benefit fees and expenses.

5. Compromising Defendants' Retain Rights Against Insurers:

a. The Compromising Defendants' execution of this Agreement and participation in the settlement of this Litigation shall not be construed to release and the Compromising Defendants expressly do not intend to release any claim they may make against any insurer for any cost or expense incurred in connection with this settlement, including attorneys' fees and costs. In the event of any such claim, Murphy agrees that all parties' rights and obligations between Murphy and its Insurers shall be determined by and any such claim shall be addressed by, the terms, conditions and provisions of the implicated and relevant insurance policy or policies exclusively, and any agreements reached by Murphy and its Insurers concerning those policies notwithstanding any provision in this Settlement Agreement to the contrary.

6. Headings for Convenience Only:

a. The headings of each section and paragraph of this Agreement are included for convenience only and shall not be deemed to constitute part of this Agreement or to affect its construction.

7. Applicable Law:

a. The parties to this Agreement have agreed that the validity and interpretation of this Agreement and any of the terms or provisions thereof, as well as the rights and duties of the parties thereunder, shall be governed solely by the laws of the State of Louisiana (where the Incident occurred and where the overwhelming majority of Class Members reside).

8. Authority of Signatories:

 Each of the signatories to this Agreement warrants he/she is authorized and empowered to execute this Agreement.

9. Binding Effect:

parties hereto and their respective estates, heirs, successors and assigns. This Agreement does not bind, and shall not expand the rights of, any Persons who are not parties hereto or Released Parties, and no Person who is not a party to this Agreement or a Released Party shall acquire any rights hereunder, whether as a third-party beneficiary or otherwise.

10. No Party Deemed the Drafter:

a. This Agreement has been negotiated at arm's length, with the participation of the PSC and the Compromising Defendants. In the event of any dispute arising out of this Agreement, or in any proceeding to enforce any of the terms of this Agreement, neither the PSC nor the Compromising Defendants shall be deemed to be the drafter of this Agreement or of any particular provision or provisions, and no part of this Agreement shall be construed against either the PSC or the Compromising Defendants on the basis of its identity as the drafter of any part of this Agreement. Neither the PSC nor the Compromising Defendants shall seek to invoke the doctrine of contra proferentum to interpret this Agreement.

11. Dispute Resolution:

The Parties agree that any objections to, or disputes concerning, this Settlement Agreement shall be submitted to the District Judge. Whether all rights of appeal by the Parties from the decisions of the District Judge have been waived by agreement is the subject of a motion to be presented to this Court by the PSC. It is Murphy's position that no rights of appeal have been waived except as to the allocation of Compensation Program benefits. Specifically, it is Murphy's position that Murphy has reserved rights to appeal as provided by the FRCP, the FRAP and applicable law as to any future decision regarding the PSC's fee application. It is the PSC's position that Murphy has made an express, enforceable agreement to waive such appeal rights as to any decisions by the District Judge concerning any issues or disputes related to this Settlement Agreement.

12. Entire Agreement:

The Parties to this Agreement warrant and agree that no promise or agreement not expressed herein or in the exhibits hereto has been made to them, that this Agreement, complete with its exhibits, contains the entire agreement between the Parties, that the Agreement supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings between the Parties with respect to the matters, with the reservation as to Murphy's position regarding Dispute Resolution as stated above, and that the terms of this Agreement are contractual and not a mere recital and that in executing this Agreement, neither the Class (through the PSC) nor the Compromising Defendants are relying on any statement or representation made by the other, nor any agents and attorneys of the Class or the Compromising Defendants concerning the subject matter, basis or effect of this Agreement other than as set forth herein; and that in executing this Agreement, the Parties rely solely on their own judgment and knowledge. No prior draft of this Agreement, nor any negotiations or proceedings in pursuance of this Agreement, nor any other parol evidence, shall be offered or received as evidence concerning the interpretation or construction of this Agreement, except as provided by Louisiana law.

13. Amendments:

This Agreement shall not be altered, amended or modified except by written instrument executed by the Parties. The Parties reserve the right, subject to the Court's approval, to grant any reasonable extensions of time that might be necessary or desirable in carrying out any of the provisions of this Agreement.

14. Inadmissibility:

The Parties specifically acknowledge, agree and admit that this Agreement and its exhibits, along with all related drafts, motions, pleadings, conversations, negotiations and correspondence, shall be considered an offer to compromise and a compromise within the meaning of Louisiana Code of Evidence article 408, the Federal Rule of Evidence article 408, and any equivalent rule of evidence of any state, and shall not constitute, be construed, be offered, or received into evidence as an admission of the validity of any claim or any fact alleged by the Class in this Litigation or in any other pending or subsequently filed action, or of any wrongdoing, fault, violation of law, or liability of any kind on the part of Compromising

Defendants or admission by Compromising Defendants of any claim or allegation made in this Litigation or in any action, nor as an admission by any Class Member or the PSC of the Class of the validity of any fact or defense asserted against them in this Litigation or in any action provided, however, that the Agreement shall be admissible to obtain dismissal of claims brought in contravention of it and as proof of satisfaction and compromise of claims settled pursuant to this Agreement.

15. Severability:

If any provision, paragraph, section, or other portion of this Agreement is found to be void, all of the remaining portions of this Agreement shall remain in effect and be binding upon the Parties.

16. Counterparts:

This Agreement may be executed simultaneously in two or more counterparts, and those counterparts shall be construed together and constitute one agreement.

- 17. All members of the PSC agree not to represent any opt-out or objector to the Settlement Agreement.
- 18. The PSC agrees not to challenge settlements made under the Murphy Voluntary Settlement Program; however, this provision is not intended to prevent or impede the enforcement of claims or entitlement to benefits under this Agreement.

v. Murphy Oil USA, Inc.

C.A. No. 05-4206 (All Cases) "L"(2)

Our File: 3-050653

Dear Sidney:

This confirms our conversation of earlier today in which we agreed to modify the opt back in deadline. As you know, the Settlement Agreement states that the opt back in deadline is December 1, 2006. This morning we agreed to extend that deadline until December 8, 2006. This letter is to conform with the Settlement Agreement that requires modifications be in writing.

I am copying Amelie Trahant on this letter with the request that it be placed in the court record and noted as a modification to the Settlement Agreement. I understand that the Order that the Court is entering on Preliminary Approval will be consistent with this modification and contain a December 8, 2006 deadline to opt back into the class.

I. FOREWORD

This document sets forth the collective determination of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Region 6 (EPA), the Louisiana Department of Environmental Quality (LDEQ), the Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals (LDHH) and the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR, an agency within the U.S. Public Health Service), (the Agencies) of what constitutes a cleanup that is protective of public health and the environment at the Murphy Oil spill site in St. Bernard Parish, Louisiana. This document will:

- Address the significant human exposure pathways;
- Discuss pathways that did or did not result in a significant human exposure;
- Itemize the performance standards for response, if any, to address each pathway;
- List response measures necessary to attain the performance standards; and
- Identify acceptable confirmation methods (sampling, air monitoring, etc.) to verify whether the performance standards have been attained.

This document is also intended to define completion of the subject oil spill response and to summarize the Agencies' basis for finding that a response meeting the performance standards set forth in this document is protective of human health and the environment.

II. INTRODUCTION

On August 29, 2005, Hurricane Katrina made landfall in Southeastern Louisiana wreaking widespread devastation with flooding and high winds. The President of the United States declared the area affected by the hurricane a disaster and invoked the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (Stafford Act) authorizing funding for disaster relief for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). Pursuant to the Stafford Act, state and federal agencies initiated response efforts organized according to the National Response Plan employing the Incident Command System in a Unified Command Structure. Under the National Response Plan Emergency Support Function #10 for Oil and Hazardous Materials Response, the U.S. EPA and the U.S. Coast Guard (USCG) agreed to divide responsibilities for numerous major oil and hazardous substance releases in the area.

Flooding in St. Bernard Parish had receded by several feet by September 3, 2005, when a large above-ground storage tank at the Murphy Oil Meraux Refinery (Murphy) tank farm released just over one million gallons of crude oil. Murphy notified the National Response Center, was identified as a responsible party, and promptly began cleanup actions with federal oversight. Much of the spilled oil was recovered from secondary containment and drainage canals and was placed back into Murphy's control under USCG supervision. An estimated 25% to 30% of free oil volatilized or evaporated.\(^1\) The remainder of the spilled oil entered local storm drains and nearby residential and commercial neighborhoods of Chalmette. Once the free oil recovery phase was completed in late October, 2005, the USCG and EPA agreed that EPA would resume the lead Federal Agency role and work with other State and Federal Regulatory Agencies to oversee the remaining cleanup. In addition to major oil spills, there were also numerous small scale hydrocarbon releases associated with Hurricane Katrina flooding in Southeast Louisiana, from sources such as submerged vehicles, homes, and businesses.

Ш. GEOGRAPHIC AREA OF CONTAMINATION

The areal extent of contamination from the oil spill was initially assessed by EPA using visual surveys. There have been three separate and independent delineations of the area potentially affected by the oil spill ("study areas").2 In September/October 2005 Murphy workers delineated an area which was based upon their visual and analytical identification of oil contamination. This area was posted on Murphy-produced maps and was shaded blue. It has subsequently become colloquially known as the "baby blue area".

EPA performed several visual oil contamination surveys which were posted on EPA maps and updated periodically with new EPA survey information. EPA conducted house-tohouse3 visual surveys in October, 2005 roughly characterizing the levels of oiling on the properties in the impact area. Four levels of oiling were established for this survey: heavy, moderate, light, and oil line. Heavy was defined as a property where greater than fifty percent (50%) of the yard and sidewalks were covered with product. Moderate was defined as a property where roughly 50% of the yard and sidewalks were covered with product. Light was defined as a property where only a small percent of the horizontal surfaces were covered with oil product. The fourth category identified an oil line or a visible band of oil on a residence. Of approximately 1800 homes within the EPA study area identified as affected, 114 were classified as heavy, 286 as moderate, and the remainder as light to oil line only. Not all of the structures within the boundaries of the EPA study area exhibited oil contamination.

Estimated volumes of oil volatilized or evaporated is based on the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Automated Data Inquiry for Oil Spills model, version 2 (ADIOS2), utilized by the U.S. Coast Guard in mass balance analyses of oil spills.

²This Closure Plan addresses contaminants and exposure pathways that are associated with crude oil from the Murphy Oil USA, Inc. Refinery. EPA is maintaining a robust file record of response activities. Liability discussions are outside the scope of this document.

The terms "house" or "home" and "structure" are used interchangeably in this document. The impacted area includes both commercial and residential buildings, but the vast majority are residential.

A third delineation of potentially affected areas was made based on evidence presented in a third party lawsuit styled Patrick Joseph Turner et al. v. Murphy Oil USA, Inc., et al. The map, colloquially known as the "big box area" is posted on the website of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana at < www.laed.uscourts.gov> at the tab marked "Murphy Oil." The big box area is the largest of the three study areas. The three study areas are depicted on the map found at Attachment 1.

While the study areas can be identified through visual observation, the actual extent of the oil spill must be finally determined by environmental sampling and analysis.4 As of June 1, 2006, Murphy with regulatory agency oversight has collected approximately 8008 samples from 4789 addresses. EPA has taken 834 splits of the total samples. There are an estimated 6000 addresses within the big box area, some 1500-2000 of which have not been sampled. Out of the 4,728 properties sampled in the blg box area, analytical results received as of June 2, 2006 indicate that:

559 properties exhibit exterior oil contamination above RECAP Standards⁵ 4,169 properties exhibit exterior oil contamination below RECAP Standards. 1,667 properties exhibit interior oil contamination⁶

Murphy Oil, with EPA oversight is testing soils and flood sediments inside and outside structures within the study area for total petroleum hydrocarbons (TPH). The TPHs are broken down into "families" of compounds for analytical and health risk assessment purposes: Gasoline ^{&#}x27;Sampling and analysis are essential for several purposes. First, given flooding conditions and actions of winds and currents at the time that the oil spill occurred, not all of the properties within the study areas as defined experienced actual oil contamination. Second, sampling reveals the concentrations of an array of analytes, information crucial to determining actual or potential public health effects. Third, sampling indicates locations within the study area where concentrations of contaminants exceed health-based screening levels, necessitating environmental response action in that location. The fourth purpose of sampling is "fingerprinting" oil. EPA and LDEQ have determined that fingerprinting is relevant to tracing the source of oil back to crude oil from the Murphy Oil USA, Inc. facility.

⁵Approximately 71, or 5% of the samples above RECAP standards reportedly do not match the fingerprint of the crude oil spilled from the Murphy Oil USA Refinery, indicating that the contamination may have originated from another source or combination of sources. As noted above, liability issues are outside the scope of this document.

⁶Approximately 297, or 20% of the interior samples reportedly do not match the fingerprint of the crude oil spilled from the Murphy Oil USA Refinery, indicating that the contamination may have originated from another source or combination of sources.

Range Organics (GRO)7, Diesel Range Organics (DRO), Oil Range Organics (ORO), and Polynuclear Atomatic Hydrocarbons (PAHs).8

The sampling protocol is designed to be biased toward sampling where there is visible contamination and hence reveal worst-case field conditions. At EPA's request, Murphy splits 10% of the field samples it collects with EPA. The samples are composites of soil/sediment collected from no less than three visibly contaminated areas on the property to reflect the concentrations to which a property occupant would be subjected. If three visibly contaminated areas are not available on a property, the sampling crew selected locations of their best estimate of representative soil. A composite sampling approach was used to determine the spatial average concentration present at each property. The average concentration resulting from composite sampling is most representative of the concentration available for contact by persons at the property and thus is an appropriate concentration for the evaluation of potential health risks.

Initially, samples of sediment (residual sediment/contaminant mixture left by area-wide flooding) deposits were collected from a depth of 0-6 inches below ground surface (bgs). Initially, in early September 2005, the sediments were wet and of substantial volume. However, with time, flood-deposited sediment dried and became a thinner, more compact layer. The sampling protocol was amended to specify a sampling depth of 0-2 inches to preserve the biased sampling approach intended to reveal worst case field conditions. If no sediment was visible, surface soil (0-2 inches) was collected instead. EPA split samples are submitted to contract laboratories for independent analysis. Validated analytical results were provided to ATSDR for use in composing Health Consultations, and were/are posted on the EPA website.

Placement of trailers on residential properties within St. Bernard Parish is of utmost importance to the Parish and FEMA, to facilitate return of residents to the area for rebuilding, economic development, and restoration of normal living conditions. At the request of FEMA and the Parish, EPA is providing assistance to FEMA with placement of trailers in the Murphyaffected area. Trailers may only be placed at properties where three criteria are met: 1) the property owner requests a trailer from FEMA; 2) the exterior soil/sediment sample analytical data is below the LDEQ RECAP standard, and 3) the exterior of the property is clean and free of visible oil.

The LDHH and the ATSDR (the Health Agencies) were consulted on the EPA/LDEQ/FEMA process for placing trailers as temporary housing within the oil spill area, to ascertain whether the overall process is protective of public health. The Health Agencies have expressed concern over the "island effect," where trailers may be placed on properties that have ⁷Based on the totality of information available concerning the site. Gasoline Range Organics were not selected as a contaminant of concern in connection with this oil spill.

⁸A more thorough discussion of the DRO and ORO families of compounds under RECAP can be found in Section V.A.I., below.

been appropriately cleaned, immediately adjacent to properties which remain contaminated above RECAP standards. The concern specifically is for residents and pets that may enter the adjacent oil-contaminated property and then contaminate themselves with oil or cross-contaminate their own property or trailer. To resolve this concern, ATSDR and LDHH are providing fact sheets to FEMA for distribution to trailer applicants and residents in the affected area. The fact sheets convey steps to protect health and promote safety as residents re-enter the Parish and go about the work of cleanup and rebuilding. The fact sheets contain practical recommendations for area residents, to protect themselves against potential hazards connected with the oil spill, specifically:

- Avoid contact with oil substances in affected homes;
- Sensitive individuals, including children and people with recently healed or open wounds, should avoid exposure to oil substances;
- Restrict children from entering areas containing oil-related waste;
- Restrict pets from entering oil-contaminated areas, to prevent exposure to
- Use oil-resistant gloves (not latex);
- Keep arms and legs covered.
- If you get oil on skin, immediately wash with soap and water.

The fact sheets also make recommendations to protect public health against other areawide hazards such as sediments, molds, household chemicals, reptiles/animals/insects, and dust. These recommendations encourage residents to think safety and prevent injuries generally:

- Practice safety behaviors;
- Use safety equipment;
- Block hazards from your body (with masks, goggles, long sleeves, overalls, work boots, etc.)
- Exercise good hygiene, limiting exposure by:
 - Washing hands often
 - Keeping hands away from face
 - Not wearing work clothes into living quarters;
 - Not tracking dirt from work area back into living quarters;
 - Bathing at the end of the day;
 - Not washing work clothes with the rest of the laundry
- Establishing a decontamination area between work area and living quarters.

ATSDR and LDHH expect to publish additional fact sheets in the near future. It is noteworthy that the recommendations of the Health Agencies have focused on precautionary practices, not on area-wide evacuation or exclusion of the public from the oil impacted area based upon actual or potential human exposure to crude oil residual.

IV. PUBLIC HEALTH DETERMINATIONS

On Nov. 1, 2005, EPA gave ATSDR the results of the split samples and requested an assessment of potential health hazards posed by the contamination. ATSDR reviewed the EPA sampling results and on November 9, 2005 released an initial Health Consultation advising the public of the nature of the hazards at the site. The complete November 9, 2005 Health Consultation can be reviewed at http://www.bt.cdc.gov/disasters/hurricanes/katrina/murphyoil/>.

On December 9, 2005, ATSDR released a second Health Consultation based on review of sediment/soil sampling that was conducted between September 19 and November 8, 2005 at more than 800 properties. The following discussion of "Health Effects of Exposure to Oil and Oil Constituents" is an excerpt from the December 9, 2005 ATSDR Health Consultation, pp. 7-8:

The most likely pathway for people to be exposed to petroleum contaminated sediments is by direct contact with bare skin. Children may be at increased risk of exposure to contaminated sediments during play activities. In addition, oil contaminants can adhere to the fur of pets, and the contamination can be transferred to people who pet or groom their pets.

Prolonged dermal contact with crude oil and petroleum products can cause skin erythema (reddening), edema, and burning. The skin effects can be exacerbated by subsequent exposure to ultraviolet light from sunlight. This enhanced toxicity is due to the phototoxicity of trace contaminants in the oil, such as the PAHs.

Human epidemiological studies have shown that high-dose, chronic, occupational exposure to mineral oils can cause skin cancer. An increased risk of skin cancer, sinonasal cancer, gastrointestinal cancer, and bladder cancer have been reported in metal workers and other occupations with prolonged contact with Mineral oils. These carcinogenic effects may be related to the PAHs in the mineral oils. As discussed above, short-term or long-term exposures to the reported concentrations of PAHs in sediment samples [from the Murphy Oil spill, discussed at pp. 6-7] are unlikely to cause a significant carcinogenic risk.

ATSDR did not receive any data on indoor air concentrations of volatile organic chemicals (VOCs). If doors and windows of buildings are closed, VOCs that evaporate from residual oil can remain trapped indoors. In the absence of Indoor air VOC data, ATSDR is not able to assess whether indoor air concentrations of volatile petroleum constituents, such as henzene, are at levels of health concern.

The December 9, 2005 ATSDR Health Consultation, which can be reviewed in its entirety at http://www.bt.cdc.gov/disasters/hurricanes/katrina/murphyoil/pdf/murphy_oil_120905.pdf, made the following Conclusions and Recommendations:

Conclusions:

- 1) Concentrations of oil-related chemicals in sediment and soil samples from most properties are below ATSDR comparison values and LDEQ RECAP standards for petroleum products. Short-term or long-term exposures to such sediments do not pose a public health hazard. However, other potential health hazards, such as indoor mold and structural damage, should be evaluated prior to re-occupying those properties.
- 2) Concentrations of petroleum products in sediment and soil samples from some properties exceed LDEQ RECAP standards. Remediating such properties to the RECAP standards would be protective of public health for re-occupancy.

Recommendations:

- 1) Avoid bare skin contact with sediment, soil, and indoor surfaces with visible oil contamination.
- 2) Properties with sediment/soil contamination that exceeds LDEQ RECAP® standards for petroleum products should be remediated prior to re-occupancy.
- 3) Homes with visible indoor oil contamination or noticeable petroleum odors should be tested to determine if indoor air VOCs are at concentrations of health concern prior to reoccupancy.
- 4) Homes should not be re-occupied until potential health hazards, such as indoor mold and structural damage, have been assessed and remediated, where necessary.

EXPOSURE PATHWAYS V.

Biodegradation and photodegradation of crude oil are well understood scientifically, and are active, evident natural processes at work in the September 2005 Judge Perez Oil Spill. Because residents are returning to the affected area, it is important to complete sampling and analysis across the affected area as soon as possible. Natural degradation processes will eventually eliminate crude oil residuals, but these natural processes do not occur at a rate sufficiently rapid to guarantee protection of human health in this setting. Sampling determines the concentrations of contaminants present, indicating where active response measures are appropriate. Sampling is necessary to facilitate the placement of temporary FEMA trailers and more generally, inform area residents of steps necessary to return to their homes rapidly and safely.

The Louisiana Risk Evaluation and Corrective Action Program (RECAP) is further described in Section V. infra.

Dermal Exposure A.

As noted in the December 9, 2005 ATSDR Health Consultation quoted above, dermal exposure to oil presents the most likely pathway for people to be exposed to petroleum contaminated sediments. ATSDR's recommendations to abate the threat are detailed above: avoid bare skin contact with sediment, soil, and indoor surfaces with visible oil contamination and remediate properties with sediment/soil contamination exceeding LDEQ RECAP standards prior to reoccupancy.

Sediment/Soil remediation: I.

Performance Standards

The LDEQ has established health risk-based soil/sediment screening levels for Diesel Range Organics (DRO), and Oil Range Organics (ORO) and Polynuclear Aromatic Hydrocarbons (PAH) found within total petroleum hydrocarbons in the Louisiana Department of Environmental Quality's Risk Evaluation and Corrective Action Program (RECAP). 10 RECAP was promulgated as a regulation after extensive notice and comment proceedings by the State of Louisiana. The LDEQ RECAP Management Option 1 (MO-1) standard, use of which typically results in the most conservative action levels of the three RECAP Management Options, has been selected as a protective standard for the evaluation of potential long-term health risks associated with exposure to residual petroleum hydrocarbons in soil/sediment. The soil RECAP standard addresses exposure to petroleum hydrocarbons through dermal contact, incidental ingestion, and the inhalation of volatile emissions to ambient air.

Comparison of analytical results from a given property with the RECAP standards indicates whether there is a human health threat. If the observed concentration is below the RECAP screening level, then acute and chronic health concerns due to a given family of compounds are judged highly unlikely. However, if the sample results exceed the RECAP screening level standards on a given property, additional assessment or response work is required.

Performance standards for this oil spill response are removal of visible oil contamination and the following standards, applicable to residential soil from RECAP MO-1:

650 mg/kg Total Petroleum Hydrocarbon - Diesel Range Organics Total Petroleum Hydrocarbon - Oil Range Organics 1800 mg/kg

¹⁶ RECAP specifies that TPH-GRO, DRO, ORO, and PAHs are the constituents of concern (COCs) for a crude oil release. Test methods for TPH compounds are fairly nonspecific. RECAP allows for site-specific COC determination on a case-by-case basis. If a property exhibits contaminant levels greater than RECAP standards, additional confirmation sampling using a more specific analytical method may be conducted.

The MO-1 TPH-ORO and TPH-DRO RECAP standards are considered to be highly protective due to the conservative nature of the method used to develop the standards. The Total Petroleum Hydrocarbons Criteria Working Group developed an approach for the quantitative evaluation of TPH within the EPA risk assessment framework. This approach includes the evaluation of individual indicator compounds (e.g., benzene and PAHs) along with the evaluation of TPH fractions. TPH fractions are more narrowly defined mixtures of TPH than the less specific, more broadly defined TPH-DRO and TPH-ORO mixtures. In general, these fractions are defined by chemical structure (e.g., aromatic or aliphatic) and by the number of carbons or size of individual chemicals within the fraction. RECAP uses the TPH Indicator fraction approach and a RECAP standard has been developed for each of these fractions. The TPH-DRO and TPH-ORO mixtures are each comprised of several of these smaller fractions. Therefore, for the identification of the RECAP standards for TPH-DRO and TPH-ORO, the RECAP standards for all of the fractions comprising each mixture are identified and most protective (i.e. lowest concentration) is selected to represent the whole TPH mixture.

For example, the fractions corresponding to TPH-DRO include aliphatics $C_{>10-12}$, aliphatics $C_{>10-12}$, aliphatics $C_{>10-12}$, aliphatics $C_{>10-35}$, aromatics $C_{>10-12}$, aromatics $C_{>10-12}$, aromatics $C_{>10-12}$, aromatics $C_{>10-12}$, and aromatics $C_{>21-35}$. The RECAP Standards for these fractions are 1200 mg/kg, 2300 mg/kg, 3700 mg/kg, 10,000 mg/kg, 650 mg/kg, 1200 mg/kg, 1800 mg/kg, 1500 mg/kg, and 1800 mg/kg, respectively. The lowest of these values is 650 mg/kg; therefore, 650 mg/kg was identified as the RECAP standard for TPH-DRO.

In view of this conservative approach for identifying the RECAP standards for TPfl-DRO, and TPH-ORO, the use of the values as action levels and/or cleanup levels is recognized as protective of human health. It is also important to recognize that the RECAP standards for TPH are developed to be protective of children who represent a sensitive subpopulation for soil exposure (i.e., are most susceptible to exposure to contaminated soils). The RECAP standards for fPH are also protective of adults for long term (30 years) exposures to soil. However, based on the natural degradation of TPH in the environment, it is very unlikely that exposure to TPH could occur for such extended periods of time. The protective assumptions/methods used in the development of the TPH RECAP standards result in standards that are considered highly conservative and hence protective of human health when used as action levels and/or cleanup levels.

There are a variety of test methods for TPH. The most commonly used method identifies and quantifies the TPH-DRO and TPH-ORO mixtures and is fairly non-specific. The Indicator/fractionation TPH method generates more specific data and is often used when less specific methods indicate that TPH concentrations may be unacceptable and further evaluation is indicated. If a property exhibits soil TPH levels greater than RECAP MO-1 screening standards, additional sampling using a more specific analytical method may be conducted in lieu of immediately addressing the property via excavation and disposal. RECAP allows additional site specific data to be gathered to more accurately refine the highly conservative assumptions such as those listed above for MO-1. Using site-specific data and consultation with LDEQ, the MO-2 and MO-3 action levels for a particular response action may be set higher (in some cases, at least an order of magnitude higher) than those allowed using MO-1. It is important to recognize that, although site-specific MO-2 or MO-3 RECAP standards are higher than the MO-1 generic screening standards, they are equally protective of human health and the environment. Under MO-1, MO-2, and MO-3, RECAP also allows for the list of the chemicals of concern to be tailored to site-specific conditions based on chemical-specific release information and/or through the use of a tiered screening process.

Response Measures b.

Measures necessary to remediate visible oil found in sediment and soil above RECAP standards include the following:

- Secure rights of access to property within the oil spill area for site characterization and response.
- Remove visible oil and all soils containing petroleum hydrocarbons above RECAP standards; transport it to and dispose of it at a facility permitted to accept oil-contaminated materials.
- Backfill removal or excavation area with clean soil; clean and restore sidewalks, driveways, and other paved surfaces to condition prior to oil impact.
- Conduct pre-final inspection with EPA and/or LDEQ of each property as response is completed; address remaining stained or contaminated locations.

A process/work flow diagram depicting the response process is found at Attachment 3.

Confirmation Method

Confirmation methods for soil cleanup include visual inspection of the remediated area and confirmation sampling to verify that the performance standards have been attained. Confirmation soil samples will be collected at four discrete locations at each property with structures. One sample will be obtained from the front yard, one from each side yard (where available) and one from the back yard. The samples are analyzed and results reported as discrete samples for each address, in accordance with the RECAP standard for confirmatory samples. EPA and/or START¹¹ may conduct final inspections of the exterior of homes prior to the receipt of analytical results from confirmatory samples, but will also conduct a final inspection/photodocumentation of an address after analytical results have been received. confirming that the contaminant levels are below RECAP, that the yard has been backfilled, and that any visible oil has been eliminated.

¹¹Superfund Technical Assistance and Response Team, technical assistance contractors employed under a nationwide, multi-year EPA contract to provide, inter alia, technical support and response personnel, particularly for removal actions and emergency response.

2. Exterior surfaces

a. Performance Standard

Exterior surfaces such as walls, fences, sidewalks, driveways, and other paved surfaces should be cleaned to a visual cleanliness standard.

b. Response Measures

Fixed structural surfaces (e.g. exterior walls) are cleaned by powerwashing, collecting, containing and properly disposing of washwater. Some visually contaminated exterior surfaces (such as fence pickets) may constitute oiled debris/personal property and may be handled accordingly.

c. Confirmation Method

Visual inspection is the confirmation method for remediation of exterior surfaces. In some cases, staining or other discoloration will remain on an exterior surface after powerwashing has been completed. If visual oil staining persists after two pressure washings, EPA/START will firmly press/rub the stained area with a white paper towel to determine if the visible oil could be transferred to that towel. If the stain cannot be visibly transferred to the towel, the Agencies have agreed that the stain would not present a significant risk of exposure from dermal contact.

3. Interior surfaces

Spilled oil reached the interior of some structures within the study area, although interior oiling is generally observed to be light and occasional when compared with exterior contamination. St. Bernard Parish requires that structures within the hurricane-flooded area that have adequate structural integrity to be rebuilt must be gutted prior to rebuilding and reoccupancy. The Parish has established Aug. 29, 2006 as the deadline for gutting structures within the Parish. "Gutting" is defined as the removal of all interior contents, including personal items (clothing, furniture, toys, etc.) as well as sheet rock, insulation, floor covering, cabinetry, etc. so that bare 2x4 studs and concrete or sub-floors remain. In most instances, almost all interior oiled material is removed in the gutting process.

Although there are no RECAP standards for interior surfaces or sediments deposited inside homes, the RECAP MO-1 soil standards were used for the purpose of evaluating potential acute health risks associated with the handling of oiled sediments and/or other debris during gutting procedures. The Health Agencies reviewed the RECAP standards and determined that the standards were appropriately protective of human health for this use.

a. Performance Standard

After a structure within the oil spill area has been gutted, visible oil must be removed from interior surfaces such as walls, subfloors, etc. Interior surfaces must be cleaned to a visual cleanliness standard. As noted above, while there are no numerical RECAP or other screening levels for cleanup of crude oil from the interior of residential structures, the requirement to remove visible oil provides an adequate level of protectiveness.

Response Measures Ь.

The structure is inspected for visible interior surface staining, including floor surfaces, interior walls, HVAC systems, interior surfaces of exterior walls, etc. The structure is gutted after inspection but prior to any interior cleaning. Safety hazards such as electrical power deenergization should be addressed prior to commencement of cleaning. Interior surfaces should he cleaned with a high pressure/high temperature potable water spray with a detergent included and used in accordance with instructions, or otherwise thoroughly washed. Cleaned surfaces should be allowed to dry. The dry surfaces are reinspected to determine if the visual cleanliness standard has been achieved. Surface cleaning may be repeated until these criteria are met.

Confirmation Method e.

Visual inspection is the confirmation method for remediation of interior surfaces. In some cases, staining or other discoloration will remain on an interior surface after powerwashing or other cleanup has been completed. In those instances, the wipe test for visual oil described in Section V.2., c. above is used to make a final determination whether cleanup is adequate to eliminate dermal exposure as a significant exposure route.

Oiled Debris and Personal Property

Oiled debris, including vegetation, gutted house contents, etc. is to be removed and collected for off-site disposal or properly cleaned. Vehicles and vessels are being collected under a State of Louisiana commercial contract for removal and disposal.

Performance Standard

All visible oil should be removed from oil-contaminated personal property that is not shipped to an appropriate facility for off-site disposal.

b. Response Measures

Oil should be removed using best practices for the article being cleaned; if oil cannot be removed, the article should be taken off-site for disposal.

Confirmation Method C.

Confirmation of cleanup can be achieved by visual inspection.

B. Inhalation Exposure

1. Ambient Air

Crude oil spills result in localized air pollution, particularly from the volatile components. Crude oil from the Meraux refinery contained significant concentrations of volatile (or light end) compounds. The local population was largely evacuated from the area at the time of the spill, resulting in minimal exposure of the general population to volatile compounds in ambient air. Residents of St. Bernard Parish were not permitted to return to their homes for extended periods of time (if at all) during the free oil cleanup phase due to extensive flood devastation and bans imposed by local law enforcement Light ends may constitute an acute health hazard to exposed individuals inhaling or ingesting these compounds, depending upon the concentrations and the length of time that the person is exposed. However, in an outside environment, exposure at concentrations of concern is unlikely. Light ends from crude oil volatilize quickly (majority within eight hours) into the atmosphere after an uncontrolled environmental release. 12 Weather conditions in effect at the time of the spill, such as high temperatures and windy conditions, accelerate the rate of volatilization. Soil sampling in the study area indicated an absence of Gasoline Range Organics and indicator compounds analyzed using SW-846 method 8260 (volatiles)13, confirming that volatilization resulted in near complete removal of the light ends to the atmosphere. Accordingly, ambient air contaminants from the September 2005 Judge Perez crude oil spill do not pose a continuing significant pathway for human exposure.

2. Indoor Air

Analysis of potential indoor air contamination generally follows a phased approach to determine whether the exposure pathway is complete (i.e., subsurface vapors intrude into indoor ¹²American Petroleum Institute, Fate and Environmental Effects of Oil Spills in Freshwater Environments, API Publication 4675 (Dec. 1999).

¹³The EPA publication SW-846, entitled "Test Methods for Evaluating Solid Waste, Physical/Chemical Methods," is the EPA Office of Solid Waste's official compendium of analytical and sampling methods that have been evaluated and approved for use in complying with the requirements of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA). SW-846 functions primarily as a guidance document setting forth acceptable, although not required, methods for the regulated and regulatory communities to use in responding to RCRA-related sampling and analysis requirements. P. 19/26 air spaces); and if so, whether the vapors are present at levels that may pose an unacceptable exposure risk. 4 Although indoor air monitoring can be initiated at any time, EPA guidance first advises examining the potential exposure pathway to determine whether it is complete. Characterization of environmental media (e.g., soil, ground water, etc.) is undertaken to determine whether there is a source of contamination with the potential to migrate to indoor air. If the contamination in the surface and/or subsurface is either not detected, or detected and removed, then the exposure pathway is incomplete and there is no need to undertake further investigation of indoor air contamination. If subsurface contaminant sources are identified, then soil gas sampling and analyses may be initiated, to determine whether a subsurface source is releasing contaminants into the soils. If results of the soil gas analysis are negative, then the exposure pathway is incomplete and there is no need to pursue further investigation of indoor air contamination. If results of the soil gas analysis are positive, additional investigation to characterize the nature and extent of the source contamination (e.g., depth of penetration, migration under structural features, etc.) may be warranted. If deemed necessary after soil gas analysis and additional investigation, an indoor air monitoring program meeting site Data Quality Objectives may be initiated.

Within the area of the Murphy Oil spill, oil reached the interior of some structures within the study area, although interior oiling was observed as relatively light and occasional when compared with exterior oil contamination. Light end components of the crude oil are likely to have volatilized. The crude oil volatilization inside flood damaged structures is expected to be similar to that observed outside of structures, since widespread damage to doors, windows, roofs and walls has allowed free interconnection between interior and ambient air since the storm. Required gutting of the structures substantially reduces the remaining quantity of interior oil. Structures not gutted (or demolished if necessary) and rebuilt are not to be re-inhabited according to local government determinations. Interior cleaning is effective at reducing or eliminating oil in quantities which may serve as a continuing source for indoor air pollution. Biodegradation of oil is an active natural force inside of structures as well. All of the above factors combine to reduce the potential for indoor air pollution from residual crude oil.

a. Performance Standards

The standard of visual cleanliness of oil on indoor surfaces will be applied. When visible oil is removed from interior surfaces, it ceases to function as a continuing potential source of releases to indoor air.

b. Response Measures

¹⁴See, e.g., OSWER Draft Guidance for Evaluating the Vapor Intrusion to Indoor Air Pathway from Groundwater and Soils (Subsurface Vapor Intrusion Guidance, EPA Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response, Nov. 2002). "III. Summary of Draft Guidance," p.6ff. Sec also, Guidance for the Data Quality Objectives (DQO) Process, EPA QA/G-4 (EPA/600/R-96/055; Aug. 2000), re: using a careful, sequential approach to evaluating contaminated sites.

Response measures for indoor air exposure are the same as those for cleanup of indoor surfaces discussed at V.3.b. above.

Confirmation Methods C.

Visual inspection is the confirmation method for remediation of interior surfaces. In some cases, staining or other discoloration will remain on an interior surface after powerwashing or other cleanup has been completed. The wipe test described in Section V.2.c. above will be employed to confirm that oil subject to migration from structural components has been removed.

Once the interior of the structure is cleaned, the property owner must allow the structure to dry, and is expected to rebuild in accordance with standard national home building codes, using wall coverings such as sheetrock or paneling, and floor coverings such as tile, carpet, or other flooring. While no oil residual is expected to remain after the gutting and cleaning process, the exposure pathway for dermal exposure between any oil residuals and building occupants will be physically precluded by placement of new building materials in the structure.

In the unlikely event that oil residue remains inside a structure after the gutting, cleaning, and reconstruction process is completed, e.g., in the enclosed spaces between the exterior brick veneer and weatherboard of a home, residuals are not expected to present a continuing inhalation risk. No significant risk is expected due to the minute quantities of any oil residue, the evaporation into ambient air through broken windows, roofs, walls, etc. in the months following the storm, the natural degradation processes of oil, and the construction of the houses with weep holes in the first tier of bricks above the slab, which permits some ventilation and/or drainage of the void space. Field observation of structures where the brick veneer and/or weatherboard was partially destroyed or displaced by flooding has revealed no visual oil staining in the void space to date. This potential route of human exposure is deemed insignificant.

3. Soil Vapor Intrusion

Soils and sediments and some porous building materials (bricks, concrete, etc.) may take up spilled oil, and did so in this event. These hydrocarbon materials can subsequently release their light ends to indoor atmospheres resulting in vapor intrusion. Adverse health effects are possible from vapor intrusions dependent upon the specific chemical makeup of the vapors, the indoor concentrations which are inhaled, and the duration of the inhalation event(s). As noted above, in the present case, the volatile (light end) components of the spilled crude were essentially gone in the first few days after the spill event. These volatiles are essential for soil vapor intrusion to be a significant factor in risk to human health.

Information available to the Agencies indicates that the penetration of spilled crude oil into soil, sediment, and other porous materials has been very shallow. This appears to be related to the fact that area soils, sediments, and structures were underwater for several days due to storm surge, flooding and rainfall associated with the hurricane. The Judge Perez Oil spill occurred on or about September 3, 2005, when the flood water was receding. Water had saturated soil and building material and there was a low affinity for the spilled oil in otherwise porous materials. Absorption of oil by porous environmental media and structural components (e.g., brick, concrete, etc.) was observed to be minimal, surficial, and readily amenable to removal by pressure washing or shallow excavation.

Water-saturated soil tends to volumetrically swell when wet, closing interstitial spaces. and further inhibiting oil uptake. This phenomenon suggests that penetration of significant quantities of spilled oil deep into soil or beneath building slabs or other similar structures is unlikely. The native soils in the area are classified as firm loams and clays with a high affinity for organic materials. The organic affinity further decreases constituent of concern mobility in the soils. Local soils have low permeability and porosity, and typical fluid movement velocities through these native soils are only about one foot per year. (For comparison, in more porous, permeable soil types, fluids such as hydrocarbon or water are expected to move 100 or more feet in a year.)

Inspections in the Murphy Oil spill area conducted by EPA and its contractors in October 2005, while there was still visible, "wet" oil in surface soil and vegetation, indicated that oil had not migrated below the grass roots and that migration into native soil (not storm sediment) was less than one inch. A June, 2006 inspection of nine properties, excavated to a maximum depth of six inches, revealed no visible oil in the excavated area or on the exposed foundations. Finally, recent sampling results exceeded RECAP standards at thirteen properties which were recently inspected prior to response. At three properties, visible oil was noted in random areas. A small portion of soil was excavated in each of the noted oil locations and the depth of oil migration was less than one inch at each location. All properties were inspected for subsurface oil contamination by digging down to a depth of 6-12 inches in four random locations at each property. None of these inspections revealed any evidence of visible oil in the subsurface. Applying the first step in the tiered analysis outlined above in Section V.B.2 to data gathered in field inspections, the potential for oil in soils sufficient to complete a soil vapor intrusion exposure pathway is deemed unlikely.

A small subset of the structures in the study area are raised pier-and-beam foundations (as opposed to slab foundation construction). These structures have a "crawl space" beneath the floor where sediment, soil, and oil transported by the flood could have potentially migrated. The crawl space area under these structures will be sampled from each side of the home where the foundation was not enclosed by a continuous external wall. Samples are to be composited. Pier and beam homes at addresses which exhibited elevated RECAP results from yard samples will be assessed first, as most likely candidates for significant crawl space contamination. Because of the confined/enclosed nature of crawl spaces, they do not present an open pathway for human exposure. Most crawl spaces have vents in the foundation walls to facilitate air exchange of the crawl space with the atmosphere and hence promote desirable dry conditions under the floor.

Concentrations of light ends from September 2005 crude oil contaminated crawl spaces is expected to be low for many of the reasons cited above in the Soil/Sediment sections, but will be evaluated on a case by case basis.

Because of the above factors, intrusion of soil vapors from the crude oil spill into building interiors presents an unlikely potential exposure pathway and (except for the small number of structures with crawl spaces) is not being further evaluated.

4. Groundwater Vapor Intrusion

LDEQ has requested the sampling of groundwater within the spill zone. However, as discussed above, the penetration of significant quantities of spilled oil deep into soil and /or groundwater is unlikely. Therefore, the intrusion of groundwater vapors into building interiors presents an unlikely potential exposure pathway.

C. Ingestion Pathway

Residents are cautioned to employ good hygiene practices recommended by the Health Agencies for themselves, their children, and pets, in order to avoid unintentional or incidental ingestion of contaminated soil.

ŧ. Soil Ingestion

a. Performance Standards

Cleanup of residential soil to RECAP MO1 standards is expected to eliminate potential health risks from ingestion, inhalation and dermal contact with oil-contaminated soil and sediments.

b. Response Measures

Response Measures are the same as those stated for dermal contact with soil, Section V.A.1.b., supra.

c. Confirmation Methods

Confirmation Methods are the same as those stated for dermal contact with soil, above.

2. Groundwater Ingestion

Under RECAP, groundwater is classified based on yield, quality, and use. In the vicinity of the Murphy facility, the uppermost groundwater zone is classified as a groundwater 3 zone indicating that the zone yields a low volume of groundwater that is of poor quality and not suitable as a drinking water source or for other beneficial use.

VI. SITE CLOSURE

The most effective way to eliminate actual or potential threats to human health or the environment from the Judge Perez Oil Spill is for Murphy Oil USA, Inc., with EPA and LDEQ oversight, to complete area-wide cleanup of the oil as soon as possible to the standards set forth above. Comprehensive, area-wide cleanup could most thoroughly and expeditiously be completed if there were a legal mechanism to secure area-wide access to all properties requiring sampling or response, not just property-by-property access agreements. After extensive interagency consultation, the Agencies conclude that the RECAP MO-1 standards as used in this oil spill response are conservative and result in a cleanup which is protective of public health. Other potential exposure pathways discussed above are not considered sufficiently significant to necessitate additional response work. The Agencies are prepared to investigate individual properties presenting potentially anomalous circumstances.

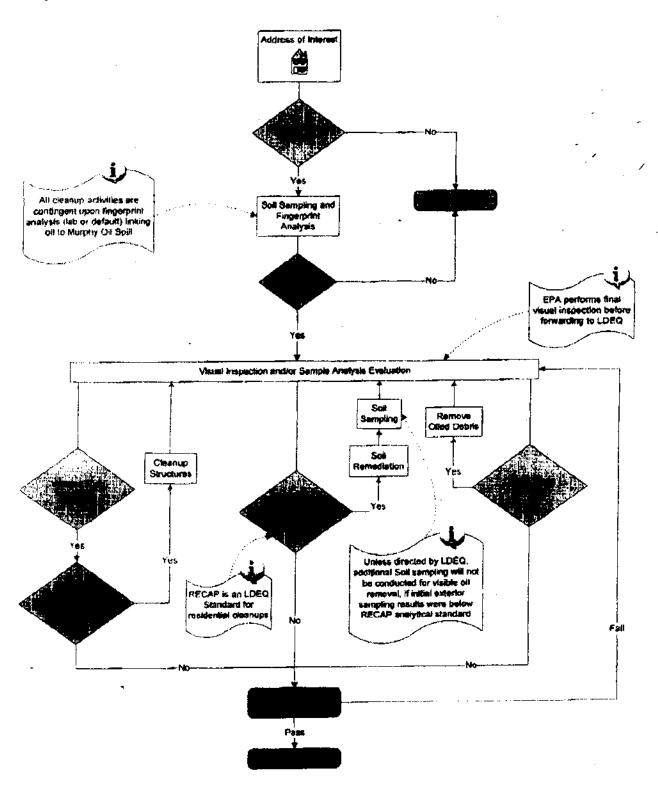

EPA and LDEQ would expect to conduct pre-final inspections, identify any remaining action items, and conduct a final inspection to verify that all necessary actions have been completed.
